Meredith, age 8, created the balloon artwork seen on this page. She spent five days as a patient in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children after she was born. Now a healthy young girl, Meredith sells candy at Christmas to buy presents for the NICU babies at St. Christopher's.

1994 Revised edition of the Oath written for the Class of 1975

I hereby pledge to put into practice that for which I have been trained--the restoration of health and the prevention of disease. May I be motivated only by concern for the health of my patient, not by financial issues or self-interest. I will strive to enhance both the science and art of medicine through continued acquisition of knowledge and technical skills. May I be willing to render help to my colleagues regardless of their professional interests, and seek their counsel when in doubt as to my own judgment.

May I also be wary of my own humanity and strive to practice my profession with honesty and dignity. May my own shortcomings not be reflected in the care or interest I take in my patients and may bias and frustration not be a part of our relationship. May I always regard as confidential that information shared with me by my patients, and honor their trust.

In essence, may each patient regardless of race, politics, gender, or social standing be regarded by me as a fellow human in need, for whom I will do as much as my training and knowledge allows. Above all, may I do no harm.
